

THE FACES OF CHRISTMAS — These eight children were singled out by the Record-Herald camera during Santa Claus' visit to Washington C.H. Their expressions tell the story — love for the jolly man, silent wonderment, impatience in waiting, and casualness. Braving snow, sleet and occasional rain, their mothers patiently waited in line for their children to see Santa. Three of the mothers also were captured by the lens. Can you match them up with their children? They are paired for you on page 14. (Photos by Don Edwards)

Romney will gather 'truth-seeker' band

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney's four-year crusade as secretary of Housing and Urban Development to make the government do more for the cities and do it faster, is ending.

At age 65, Romney announced Monday he'll step outside government to try to influence things in a private role by gathering round him a group of "truth seekers and communicators."

At HUD, Romney said he's learned there are built-in limitations in government which make "the achievement of fundamental reform too dependent upon a crisis."

Announcing his resignation effective with the confirmation of a successor, Romney stopped short of directly criticizing President Nixon. And he insisted he has not become disillusioned.

"Just say I have an understanding that I didn't have in 1960 or in 1969," he said.

Romney, a former president of American Motors and once governor of Michigan, said neither Nixon nor Sen. George McGovern, had approached the real issues during the presidential campaign.

He defined the real issues as the problems of the cities, the excessive concentration of union and corporate power and the expansion of the federal government.

As yet, only the rough outlines are visible of Romney's plans for reforming the federal government from the outside.

Private citizens will gather information designed to lead government to public solutions of problems.

"Such a body of truth seekers and communicators could create an enlightened electorate so that the parties and their candidates would find it to their advantage to seek voter support on the basis of the real issues rather than appealing to public and frequently superficial concerns of the moment," he said.

Romney was the first high-ranking Nixon administration official to resign since the President began working on organizing and staffing his second term.

He had, however, indicated as early as last August his plans to leave, though not until after the Nov. 7 election.

Romney's frequently open unhappiness in his role as Cabinet officer stems in part from his success as the man who put new life into American Motors and as the innovative governor of one of the most populous states.

Romney has always been happiest and most effective when he has been the boss with a responsibility only to himself or his constituents.

Romney was once a missionary for The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) and remains a devout member.

2 burned, 11 escape from blazing house

Gasoline fumes ignited in a Jasper Mills home Monday evening causing an explosion and fire which seriously burned two persons, one of them an infant, and gutted the house.

Sheriff's deputies said Kevin Bain, 2-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bain, Rt. 4, and Mary Higman, 27, Rt. 2, Williamsport, were both brought to Memorial Hospital by ambulance following the explosion in the Elton Taylor residence which occurred about 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Higman suffered burns over 90 per cent of her body and was transferred to Riverside Hospital, Columbus, where she is listed in critical condition. The Bain baby suffered second degree burns on the left side of his face and was admitted to Memorial Hospital in fair condition.

Eleven other persons in the house at the time of the explosion escaped without injury.

Both Washington C.H. and Sabina fire departments responded to the blaze at the home on Jasper-Coil Road and were able to save part of the one story frame house, but the interior was charred.

Firemen and sheriff's deputies made an attempt to enter the burning home when first reports indicated that the infant still was inside, but the child was located outside a few minutes later.

According to Sgt. William Crooks, the blaze broke out when fumes from gasoline being used by Mrs. Higman to clean tile adhesive from the floor were ignited by a hot water heater. The resulting explosion seriously burned Mrs. Higman, the only person in the room at the time, then spread to the adjoining room where the Bain child was lying on a couch.

Firemen found a can of gasoline and a rag apparently being used by Mrs. Higman in the room where the explosion took place. Fire crews were on the scene of the blaze nearly an hour.

Richardson, Weinberger get defense, HEW posts

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon announced today Elliot Richardson will be nominated as the new secretary of Defense and Caspar Weinberger, now director of the Office of Management and Budget, will be named to succeed Richardson as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

At the same time, Nixon said Roy Ash, president of Litton Industries, will be nominated to succeed Weinberger as the Cabinet-level director of OMB.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird has submitted his resignation and plans to return to private life after four years as chief of the Pentagon.

The announcement of the first changes in Nixon's second term Cabinet was read to newsmen by press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler in a helicopter hangar here at the presidential mountain retreat.

Nixon, who has devoted several days since his landslide reelection Nov. 7 to administration personnel changes, told newsmen that Laird would return to private life rather than take a government post in the second Nixon term.

The President Monday also accepted with "special regret" the resignation of George Romney, secretary of Housing and Urban Development. He said Romney, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would not figure in new administration appointments.

Laird and Romney had previously announced their intentions of leaving their Cabinet posts at the end of Nixon's first term.

But much of the President's 21-minute talk to the dozen newsmen at his Catocin Mountain retreat here Monday seemed aimed at discouraging speculation that he would rely less on his Cabinet in his second term than during his first four years.

"While there will be cuts in personnel around the government," Nixon said Monday, "the biggest cuts will be made in the White House staff itself."

He said "we are going to put greater responsibility on individual Cabinet members for various functions that previously had been that of the White House staff."

Jets bomb civilians in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Half a dozen American planes supporting South Vietnamese troops accidentally dropped several 500-pound bombs on a populated area south of Da Nang Monday, killing 19 civilians and wounding 29, the U.S. Command announced today.

Field reports said about 10 bombs fell in the area 2½ miles west of the provincial capital of Hoi An and about 15 miles south of Da Nang.

"The cause of the accident is not known at this time," the U.S. Command said. "An investigation is being conducted."

The Command said two U.S. Air Force F4 Phantoms and four Corsairs from the 7th Fleet carriers were involved.

It was one of the worst such incidents reported in several months.

The Command said it had no other details immediately available.

Meanwhile, North Vietnamese forces kept up their heavy artillery attacks on South Vietnamese troops trying to broaden their area of control in Quang Tri province, just below the demilitarized zone.

Military deadlock eyed in Pakistan

LAHORE, Pakistan (AP) — Talks to break the deadlock over the military demarcation line in Jammu and Kashmir began here today between the Pakistani chief of staff, Gen. Tikka Kahn, and his Indian counterpart, Gen. S.A.F.J. Maneekshaw.

A general settlement of the disputed border areas was worked out at the Simla conference of the countries' prime ministers early in July.

WAITING FOR THE SCHOOL BUS — Four Washington C.H. school students welcomed the first major snowfall of the year Tuesday morning to build a snowman while they waited for a school bus at the corner of Main Street and

White . . pretty . . treacherous!

The first real snowfall of the season, which started before dawn Tuesday, covered the ground with a white blanket and compounded the woes of the farmers, hoping and waiting impatiently to get on with their long-delayed corn and soybean harvest.

But with the temperature only around the freezing mark, the soft, wet snow clung to the branches of trees and shrubbery, creating a scene of winter beauty.

Some Miami Trace District school buses were a little late because the drivers drove slowly and cautiously. Superintendent Guy Foster said, adding there are no plans for closing the schools early, since the snow is melting on the roads.

The Fayette County Automobile Club reported that information received over the Icycle Network was that all roads in Ohio at mid-day were "not good and hazardous."

The outlook, however, holds no promise for immediate relief. The Weather Bureau forecast is for cloudy and cold with a chance of more snow flurries Tuesday night and Wednesday. A warming trend is expected from Thursday through Saturday.

The temperature registered here by Coyt A. Stookey, official weather observer, Tuesday morning was 31, a drop of 14 degrees from Monday's high of 45.

Change welfare eligibility rule

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Controlling Board agreed Monday to a slight change in eligibility standards for welfare recipients who are patients in nursing homes and hospitals.

The alteration increases from $235 to $240 the monthly income allowed such patients without loss of public assistance.

A Welfare Department official explained that the change was needed because some veterans receive monthly benefits of $239.

Nixon, Thieu aide to meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon scheduled a meeting with a personal emissary from South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu Wednesday to discuss Vietnam cease-fire negotiations.

The negotiations between presidential security adviser Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese negotiator Le Duc Tho are scheduled to resume in Paris on Monday.

Nixon is to confer with Nguyen Phu Duc, described by White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler as Thieu's special representative.

In Saigon, meanwhile, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker provided Thieu with a report on Kissinger's most recent meetings with President Nixon.

Kissinger met with Nixon twice Monday, but Ziegler declined to say what was discussed, except to warn that the current break in the Paris talks is no cause for pessimism.

Duc's meeting was requested by the South Vietnamese. The top Thieu aide flew from Saigon on Tuesday, and was to meet with Nixon at either the White House or the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., Ziegler said.

Weather

Lows tonight in the low to mid 20s. A chance of snow flurries tomorrow, with highs in the upper 20s or low 30s.

Laird says only 10,000 will be drafted by July

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said today that fewer than 10,000 men will be drafted in the next six months before Selective Service is phased out June 30 and the military shifts to an all-volunteer force.

Laird said there would be no draft calls in January and that inductions will be spread out between February and June 30.

At an unscheduled news conference, the secretary said he was confident of a smooth transition to an all-volunteer Army but he said he still expected some difficulties in recruiting enough men for the National Guard and Reserves once the pressure of the draft is ended.

The secretary said the armed forces had hoped to begin offering enlistment bonuses for the Guard and Reserves by Feb. 1 but Congress' failure to approve this program will not make this possible.

Unless the enlistment bonus is enacted, he said, Congress may have to authorize a limited draft for the Reserves after June 30 to insure they are kept up to strength.

Since the Pentagon began winding draft calls down, enlistments in the reserve forces have fallen drastically.

Laird recommended last year that Congress enact a bonus incentive program for the Reserves totaling $200 million for fiscal 1974. Under this program, a young man or woman signing up for a six-year enlistment in the Guard or Reserves would receive an $1,100 bonus.

Laird would not reveal who his successor would be, saying that would be announced by the President. However, he joked that while he may be a lame-duck secretary, he is "not a limping secretary of Defense."

His final 53 days in office will be busy ones as he prepares the new budget which he said would show a slight increase over the current $76.5 billion Pentagon budget.

Huysman buys Buckeye Bar

The Buckeye Bar, 216 E. Court St., which has been closed this week for remodeling, will be reopened in a few days, Robert Huysman, the new owner said. Huysman purchased the business from Robert Chaney, who has gone into home construction after around 12 years as owner-operator of the tavern.

Huysman, who was with the National Cash Register Co. for 17 years before the plant here was closed, took a position with the Behre Printing Co. in Dayton for a time. He will not take possession of the Buckeye Bar officially, however, until the liquor license is transferred.

Huysman said he plans to equip a kitchen to serve sandwiches and soups, starting next year.

Files expense account

Harold A. Hise, Republican county treasurer who was re-elected unopposed in the Nov. 7 general election, has filed an accounting with the Fayette County Board of Elections which reflects no contributions or expenses.

Ask pay board to OK state wage increase

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio employees could be in for a $7 million Christmas bonus if the federal Pay Board acts soon on retroactive salary increases the state has been holding since last March.

The money is part of a $50 million pay raise package approved by the legislature last Dec. 26. The Pay Board did not clear the increases until mid-March and refused to allow them to be made effective as of December.

That left in limbo some $5 million appropriated for the raises from Dec. 26 to the date of the board's action for state employees and another $1.5 to $2 million for state university and county workers.

Four state employee organizations quickly filed suits claiming it was illegal for the state to withhold money appropriated for raises. The state, meanwhile, began thinking about other ways to get the money to the workers.

The Pay Board said in its March ruling that the state could reapply to the board Nov. 14 for permission to pay out the retroactive increases.

Ohio Personnel Director Paul Corey says his staff is currently preparing a formal application for the board, but he declined to predict how the board would rule.

"I was so optimistic the last time," he said. "So this time I'm not saying anything. Can you blame me?"

The four public employee union suits against withholding of the money have been set aside pending board action on Ohio's application.

State Employees Union chief Herschel Sigall said he has been before the board himself in recent weeks, but he declined to say much about what he learned.

"I've never understood Ohio government, but the federal government blows my mind," he said. "Under their previous ruling they could have acted already. I hope they do soon. We're certainly in no position to force them to act."

Corey said that if the board denies Ohio's request the state might be able to use the funds instead to set up additional health or life insurance benefits.

Two persons injured in traffic mishaps

Two persons suffered minor injuries and two drivers were cited in four traffic mishaps investigated in the city-county area by local law enforcement agencies Monday. Damage in the accidents was mostly moderate.

A Circleville woman was treated at Memorial Hospital for minor abrasions she received in a two-car crash on U.S. 22 at the New Holland-Good Hope Road.

effective crime prevention, law enforcement, and treatment of offenders."

Although many of the bill's provisions are technical—such as one that spells out rules for "construction" of criminal statutes—others seek to clarify old definitions and provide new ones to increase the efficiency of law enforcement agencies, courts, and corrections personnel in preventing and detecting crime and dealing with offenders.

The bill defines jurisdiction, venue, and limitation of criminal prosecutions. It states the basis for criminal liability and reduces to four the "culpable mental states" required to prove guilt. These are purpose, knowledge, recklessness, and negligence.

For the first time, under the bill, the state would have rules for holding organizations criminally liable. They would make it possible to charge an organization with any offense. In place of the usual penalties, the bill contains a schedule of fines that could be collected upon conviction. These would range from $100.00 for murder down to $2,000 for unclassified misdemeanors.

Population film to be televised Wednesday night

The Public Broadcasting Service will televise "Population and the American Future" on Channels 14, 16, 20, 31, and 48 at 8 p.m. Wednesday. The two-hour special is the official film version of the Report of the Commission on Population Growth and the American Future.

A viewing guide produced by The Population Reference Bureau, Inc. had this to say about the film:

"Population and the American Future" is a new film which explains how population change affects our daily lives. In recent years the newspapers have been filled with disturbing columns about crisis—urban, missile, drug, racial, environmental—and we find ourselves overwhelmed. The Solutions seem so difficult; often we don't see how we can help.

"At this moment, population changes in the United States is not another crisis, but it does raise critical problems. We know from our own experience that growth and concentration of people can drastically affect how much housing is available, whether our children must attend schools on split sessions, whether our drive to work is bumper to bumper. If we can understand how population growth and density aggravate environmental, social and economic conditions we can deal more effectively with these problems. In short we will improve the quality of our lives and those of our children and grandchildren."

"Need for education and family planning services is shown by the number of unplanned children. Forty-four per cent of all births between 1966 and 1970 were reported as unplanned. Perhaps even more striking, 15 per cent of all births were reported as 'unwanted'."

There is a Family Planning Clinic for the women of this area at the Fayette County Health Department. It is geared toward the low-income woman who is referred by her doctor. Further information may be obtained by calling the Health Department (335-5910).

Newsman jailed again

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A newsman who refused to tell a judge the source of a news story is back in jail for the second time in two weeks.

Before William Farr was led away Monday after a hearing, Superior Court Judge Charles Older said, "It appears to the court at this time that Mr. Farr has a strong desire to become a martyr and that he wants to go to jail."

The 37-year-old reporter said, "It is a problem of personal conscience and professional ethics, not for the purpose of martyrdom. I'm the one who knows, and you do not."

Farr faces an indefinite sentence for contempt of court.

'Prayer' is topic at breakfast meet

Several different types of prayers in the Bible were discussed by the Rev. Charles J. Richmond at the weekly prayer breakfast Tuesday in the South Side Church of Christ during the meditation period. Seventy-five students and teachers were present.

Jean Anders and Debbie Coulter, both WSHS seniors led the group singing and Bruce Gilmore, a WSHS sophomore, who led the student devotionals, urged the young people to analyze their prayer life. Bill Shaw, a junior, gave the closing prayer.

Stock list up slightly

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices edged modestly higher today but showed little enthusiasm for a major rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was up 2.33 at 1020.09. Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by 7 to 5.

On the Big Board, Mattel, which reported a nine-month profit compared with a year earlier loss, was up 1 to 12 1/2. Earlier a block of 200,000 shares crossed the tape at 12, up 1/8.

On the American Stock Exchange, Ponderosa Systems was up 2 to 69 1/4. The company says it knows of no reason for the interest in its stock.

The Big Board index at noon was off .03 at 63.80, and the American Stock Exchange price-change index at noon was up .03 at 26.33.

Opinion And Comment

A word edgewise . . . by John P. Roche

Thieu: Get on the ball!

By the time this appears, let us hope that South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu will have completed his theatrics and agreed to the terms of the Indochinese agreement.

Thieu's performance was understandable: he was building a record for the benefit of his constituents, making it clear that he was no American puppet. It was an exercise comparable to a symbolic filibuster in the Senate when its participants realize it is destined to defeat, though they hope it will convey to the folks back home that the forces of righteousness fought a last-ditch battle.

Thieu's bitterest complaint, that there is no mention in the agreement of a North Vietnamese troop withdrawal, has some surface plausibility. But all the indications are that privately Hanoi has agreed to substantial pullbacks.

And if there is a cease-fire, the troops that remain will be an enormous logistical and psychological burden for the North. Recall that the United States has not agreed to retire to Hawaii — all our troops will be out, but the Seventh Fleet will still be positioned in the Tonkin Gulf. Thus if Hanoi's soldiers go on the warpath, the bombing will start again.

ODDLY ENOUGH this dispute has similarities to the Korean War. Gen. Douglas MacArthur kept bitterly denouncing the existence of a Communist "sanctuary" in Manchuria, while never mentioning the existence of the American "sanctuary" in Japan. Similarly Thieu has ignored the trade-off: that we do not in terms demand the departure of all Hanoi's regiments, but as a quid pro quo keep our floating assets in the war zone (and in Thailand, our air force).

If experience is any guide, once the shooting stops the troops want to go home. Indeed, they would be prepared to go home before the shooting stops: the average human being — American, Vietnamese or Nigerian — finds a battlefield environment uncongenial. North Vietnamese regiments sitting around in the Central Highlands, doubtless digging holes and filling them in, would be bad psychological risks. Moreover, they are needed at home where there is an acute manpower shortage.

Thieu's other complaint — that we have conceded the Communists a "coalition government" — is simply nonsense. What we have agreed to is the proposition that there are two de facto governments in South Vietnam: one holding about 90 per cent of the population in areas under its jurisdiction; the other, the "People's Revolutionary Government" (PRG), holding some chunks of the worst real estate in the world with at most 10 per cent of the population.

This happens to be true. Beyond that we have agreed to a nebulous troika, a Council of National Reconciliation, composed of Saigon representatives, Communists, and a neutral component. This body has no governmental powers, but has as its task the formulation of a peaceful settlement of the dispute in the South, preparing free elections, etc. Its decisions require unanimity.

THIS IS NOT a "coalition government." In fact, it is a fig leaf to cover a North Vietnamese retreat from the position of total victory. The Viet Cong have been complaining bitterly in Paris that Hanoi sold them down the Mekong. They are right. In essence the PRG and the Thieu government have been told to work things out, an arrangement which on its face gives Saigon an enormous advantage.

If the Thieu government cannot manage under these circumstances, it will not be because we "sold them down the river." Assuming an enforceable cease-fire, the contest will become political, the South Vietnamese will be in a position to determine their own future. Since this was the point of our intervention in the first place, even in the unlikely event that the Communists were to assume power peacefully, our commitment will have been honorably fulfilled. The time has come to put President Thieu on his own.

WASHINGTON CALLING . . . by Marquis Childs

New SALT talks attacked by ex-brass

WASHINGTON — With a succession of diplomatic triumphs in his first term, President Nixon seemed to write an end to the cold war. The promise of a "generation of peace" was certainly one reason for the huge victory he scored at the polls.

While they may be only the remnants of the once formidable ranks of cold war warriors, holding out in the last redoubt, there is an articulate and well-heeled opposition to the arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union. It will zero in on any new limitations on offensive missiles coming out of SALT II, the second round of arms negotiation with the Soviets just opened in Geneva.

The American Security Council talks the language of the cold war of the '60s. But more important than rhetoric is the Council's muscle in men and money. Listed as co-chairmen of the propaganda organization are three former chairmen of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, a gaggle of former commanding generals of the Air Force, former ambassadors, notable physicists, including Edward Teller, "father of the H-bomb," and corporate executives who in some instances have large defense contracts.

THE CURRENT drive of the Council and its brother organization, the Institute for American Strategy, is to push for showing on the nation's television screens a 27-minute film, "Only the Strong." It calls for greatly increased defense spending, with the charge that the United States is rapidly falling behind the Soviet Union if it is not already second in nuclear striking power.

Even those who challenge its accuracy agree that the color film is a brilliant piece of work. Produced by the Institute, which stresses its tax-exempt privilege, it was written and directed by Harry Treleven.

He directed the Nixon television operation in the 1968 campaign and is the deus ex machina in that impish book, "The Selling of the President." Two active duty Air Force generals are

Rural area industrial growth eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — More industrial growth will continue in non-metro areas which already have experienced heavy development, an Agriculture Department researcher says.

But he said, indications are that nonmetro areas which lacked industrial activity in the 1960s will see little further manufacturing come in.

New manufacturing brought needed employment in the 1960's to hundreds of small towns and rural communities. Rural and partly rural counties added manufacturing jobs at a rate of 4.6 per cent a year— more than double the growth rate in the metro units.

Claude C. Haren of the department's Economic Development Division says indications are the trends of the past decade have not changed direction and will continue in the 1970's. Haren's paper was summarized in the department's "The Farm Index" magazine.

Haren's research showed that in the last decade, the nonmetro South was a big gainer in manufacturing, adding about three-fourths of a million jobs. This represented nearly half the increase throughout the South, and about one-fourth of the national increase. Nonmetro counties of the North Central region were also big gainers; they contributed another 400,000 manufacturing workers.

interviewed to support the thesis that the United States is hopelessly slipping behind in the nuclear arms race.

The film has already been shown on 260 of the nation's 940 television stations. On some stations the showing has been sponsored, which means since the sponsor puts in his plug that it is tax deductible. More often it has been shown as part of so-called public service programming.

TO WHAT degree this conditions the climate of opinion no one can say. Those who have studied the film and audience response believe the effect is more subliminal than direct. That is to say a viewer may not remember any specific statements but he comes away with a feeling that disarmament is somehow dangerous and that we'd better go ahead and build everything on the drawing board.

This could be important when and if the new round of SALT talks produces what are certain to be more complicated and perhaps controversial agreements. The fear of Soviet superiority surfaced, thanks to Sen. Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson, when the agreement to limit anti-ballistic missiles and the five-year limitation on offensive missiles came before the Senate.

Jackson succeeded in putting through, by a vote of 56 to 35, an amendment stating that in any future treaty the United States should not agree "to levels of intercontinental strategic forces inferior to the limits provided for the Soviet Union." Involved was an extended argument over numbers of missiles as against deliverable destructive megatonnage force.

THE COLD WAR credo of the Council and the Institute will have greater weight in the debate certain to arise in the new Congress over reducing the $77 billion defense budget. The new Trident long-range missile-bearing submarine with nearly $1 billion in the budget, the $450 million for the new manned bomber and other gadgets will be stoutly defended by those who insist America must "catch up" with the Soviet giant.

And in this interpretation there must be part of the American arsenal and not merely "bargaining chips" at the SALT poker table.

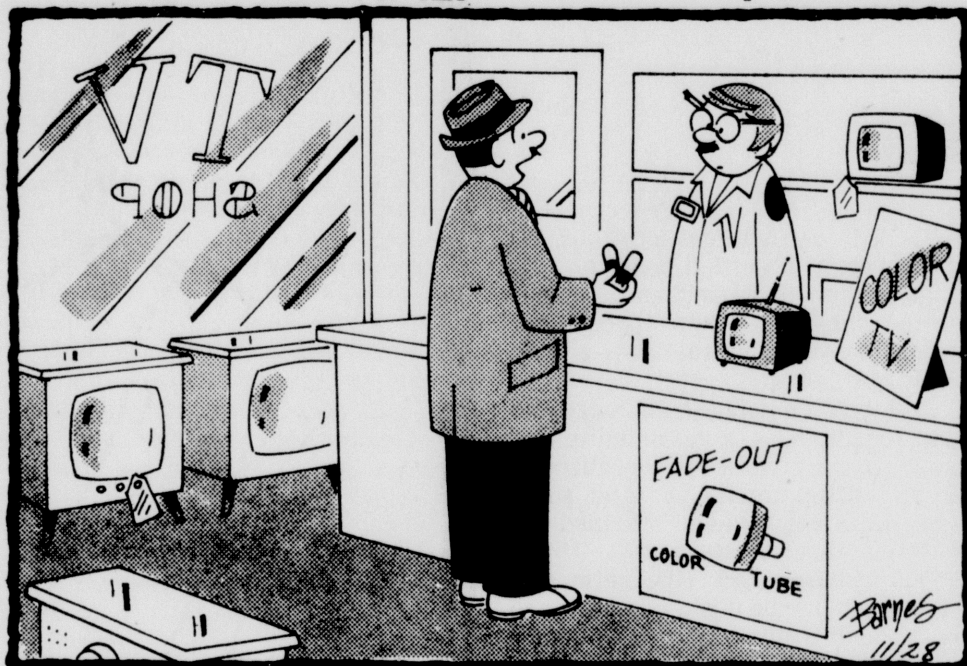

The Arms Control Association, headed by William C. Foster, former director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, strongly supports the limitation agreements. In a letter sent to all TV station managers ACA charges "Only the Strong" with a series of errors and distortions and demands equal time under the "fairness doctrine."

In the dialogue of the old cold war the ACA follows the Nixon line of coexistence between East and West.

DEAR FOLKS: It would be most helpful to the City Street Department if everyone would rake their leaves and pile them at the curb in the next few days to minimize the number of rounds the street workers must make for collection. POW parcel limit set

NEW YORK (AP) — Each American prisoner of war in North Vietnam will be allowed to receive an 11-pound parcel and a card from his family for Christmas, says Cora Weiss, co-chairman of the Committee of Liaison with Families of Servicemen Detained in North Vietnam.

Mrs. Weiss said Sunday she had received word from a North Vietnamese spokesman that the packages must be sent by next of kin by post from Moscow. Packages sent by any other way will not be received. Cards may be sent by post or via the Committee of Liaison, 365 W. 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10036, she said.

Mrs. Weiss said routing for the parcels and cards sent by the POWs' families is handled by the U.S. Post Office, which sends them via Geneva and Moscow to Hanoi by a special agreement established in 1966. She said families sending parcels and cards through this routing should address them with the serviceman's name, serial number and camp of detention to "Hanoi, D.R.V.N., via Moscow."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Widower wants widow to take holiday cruise

DEAR ABBY: Widowed five years after a long and happy marriage, I've found a widow I desperately want to marry. And that's my problem. She refuses to marry me.

I am about average in all respects except one. Financially, I am very well off, but that doesn't seem to influence her. We both have married children who are independent. I never knew this lady's husband, but understand theirs was a good marriage, so I know she's not coured on marriage.

She says she wants her "freedom." I have tried everything to change her mind. My last attempt was a two-carat diamond, which she refused to wear, even on her right hand because of the "implications" (whatever that means.)

I want to take her on a cruise in December. She said she would go-sans marriage, but how proud and happy she would make me if she would accompany me as my wife.

How can I persuade her to marry me by December? If any of your ideas are successful, I will send you a postcard from Rome-the first stop on the cruise.

HOPING DEAR HOPING: My advice to you is to go on the cruise alone. Send me a postcard any-way, if you have time to write one, which I'll bet against. No man should have to beg or bribe a woman to marry him, so get off your knees and sur-vey the market. Your only only chance for winning this woman is to play the field and show some dignified independence. And if that fails, you could be lucky.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any way a woman can buy insurance on her husband's life without letting him know about it?

I know he would have to take a physical and there's no way of tricking him into doing it.

My husband has a real hangup on this score and we can't even discuss the matter intelligently.

I can't shop around in my hometown for an insurance company that might have an angle on how to accomplish this as I have too much pride to admit to the world that my husband doesn't want to provide for his wife and children in the event of his death.

Please answer this in your column as I'm sure other wives must have the same problem. ASHAMED AND NOT PROTECTED DEAR ASHAMED: There is no way you can accomplish this without your husband's signature. Discuss this with your own insurance agent and ask him to suggest an approach that will be effective and in-offensive to your husband.

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for "Out of Excuses" who recently wrote of her concern for her 69-year-old father who continues to drive even though he has failing eyesight.

My staff in the Department of Motor Vehicles handles hundreds of these cases each year, so we understand what "Out of Excuses" and her father are going through. Since he refuses to go for a visual examination, you can arrange for him to take a test of his driving ability and knowledge.

Write to your State Department of Motor Vehicles outlining the problem and in most cases that department will send him a letter requiring him to appear for a re-examination of his driving ability. If it appears necessary, a visual examination by competent authorities will also be required. Your communication will be held in confidence.

Family Lawyer

While preparing for a hunting trip, Hodges left his loaded rifle propped against the wall in the living room. His 11-year-old son carried the gun outside, showed it to a friend, and accidentally fired a bullet into the other boy's leg.

In short order, Hodges found himself facing a sizeable damage suit. At the trial, he protested that he had never given his son permission to handle the rifle.

But the court held him liable anyhow. The court said he was guilty of negligence for leaving a dangerous weapon so easily accessible to a youngster.

Today, more than half of the nation's households have guns. Consequently, the chances of parental liability are at an all-time high. The law lays a heavy responsibility on adults to keep firearms out of immature hands.

In fact, many courts have been just as strict about BB guns, partly because they too can inflict injury and partly because they may be restricted by a local ordinance.

HOWEVER, less the danger the less the responsibility. On this ground, an injury caused by a child's toy bow and arrow was held not attributable to his parents. And in another case, parents were held not liable for their son's carelessness with a sling shot — a common plaything in the neighborhood.

Of course, almost any object can be used in a dangerous way if a child is so inclined. For example:

An 11-year-old boy picked up an old golf club which his father had left lying on the grass in their back yard. The boy swung at a pebble, but instead struck a playmate in the jaw.

Clearly, the club had been turned into a dangerous weapon on this particular occasion. But a court ruled that the father could not be blamed, since a golf club would not ordinarily fit that rule.

It was the kind of misuse, said the court, that the father could not fairly be expected to foresee.

Jumping to conclusions

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions:

Yes, mother warned me there would be days like these. But what no one on earth seems to know is just what to do about them.

Money is easier to get than a good reputation. There is another difference, too. In the space of 3 lifetime, it is easier to rebuild a lost fortune than a lost reputation.

After 50, it is foolish for a woman to worry about how her passport picture turns out. No one else she knows will.

One of the things a policeman hates to do most is to have to arrest another policeman, no matter how guilty.

Talk is cheap. That must explain why they have so many talk shows on television.

Bald men are usually more generous to street beggars than men with a full head of hair. They know what it means to be deprived.

The average department store shoplifter doesn't steal for sentimental reasons or as the result of a sudden irresistible impulse. He steals because he is a thief trying to get something for nothing he doesn't deserve to have.

Only men particularly favored by the gods are permitted the fate of falling in love with, and winning, a pretty, red-haired girl who also has green eyes.

A fool is a guy who goes through life stubbing his toes long after he's old enough to wear shoes.

I can never figure out which is the bigger bore — a successful, pompous lawyer or a pompous, unsuccessful lawyer.

In a group picture of small-town professional men, you can usually pick out the dentist and the undertaker because they have the most winning smiles.

When it comes to their looks, animals are judged even more unfairly than are men. Take the male wolf and male ostrich, for example. Each is a good husband and family man, when it comes to taking care of the kids. Yet, in an animal beauty contest, each would be passed over in favor of the kingly appearing lion. But the male lion is a measly, flea-scratching, lazy husband who lets his more active wife do most of the family hunting — and then insists upon dining first at the kill. Only when his royal appetite is gorged do his lioness and cubs get to take a bite.

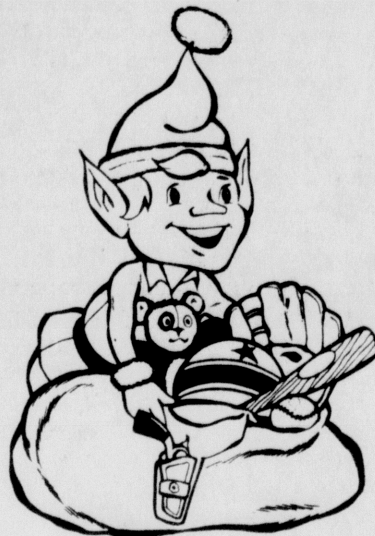

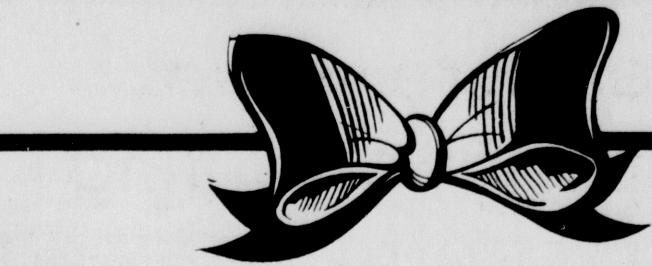

A reader who knows my dislike for breaded veal cutlets writes in to ask, "How long would you survive in a wilderness if you had nothing but breaded veal cutlets to eat?" My answer: I'd last long enough to find a native who knew a place where they had something else on the menu. I think any man should be too proud to let breaded veal cutlets be the death of him.

When a woman has too much on her mind, she goes to a psychiatrist. Then, when she has nothing on her mind, she likes to wind up the day by going to a hairdresser.

Bride wore velvet for Saturday wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie G. Hook

Miss Debra Lynne Earley became the bride of Leslie Gene Hook in an afternoon ceremony Saturday in the sanctuary of the South Side Church of Christ. The Rev. Charles Richmond officiated for the double-ring ceremony before an altar enhanced with arrangements of blue mums, gold and deep red autumn leaves and baby's breath. The pews were marked with fern and blue ribbon bows.

Mrs. Timothy Hill, organist, and Miss Kathy Woodfork, vocalist, presented a selection of wedding music.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Asa William Earley, Rt. 3, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Hook, Rt. 1, Martinsville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of velvet with empire waist accented by a lace and velvet band. The neckline was edged with wide lace and the long sleeves were edged in lace with pearl buttons at the wrists. Matching lace also trimmed the wide pleat in front and the edge of the hem. Pearl buttons also were down the front of the gown, which was designed and made by the bride and her mother.

The floor-length veil, shoulder-length veil over it, were caught to a headpiece of velvet and pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and autumn leaves.

Miss Mariann Woodruff, the maid of honor, and Miss Elise Hill, bridesmaid, wore floor-length gowns of blue velvet, with scoop neckline. They were gathered at the waists of the skirt and wrists of the long full sleeves. They were both made by the bride's mother. Miss Diane Crooks, junior bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of deep purple velvet with scoop neckline, full gathered skirt and short peasant sleeves. They all carried baskets of blue mums, heather and gold and deep red autumn leaves, with baby's breath. They wore silver bell necklaces, and heather in their hair.

Mrs. Earley chose for her daughter's wedding a formal length gown of velvet and crepe. It featured an empire waist with bodice of black velvet and crepe skirt. The bridegroom's mother wore a formal length gown of lavender knit, made by the bride. The gown had a waist band of the knit. She also wore a gold cross necklace. Both mothers wore corsages of blue mums.

Terry Bradshaw was the best man and the ushers were Keith and Randy Earley, brothers of the bride. Wayne Wilkins, Brad Sherwood, Butch Caldwell and Matt Myers.

A reception followed in fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table held a three-tiered wedding cake topped with dried flowers and encircled with fern.

The couple will reside at Rt. 2, Blanchester.

New resident honored at bridal shower

Mrs. Charles Armbrust and Mrs. Gladys Ramey combined hospitalities at a miscellaneous shower in the home of Mrs. Stanley Melvin for Mrs. Robert Melvin, a bride of Nov. 4. The honor guest, the former Susan O'Neill, of Milbourne, Fla., and her husband, have moved to this community.

A pink and white theme prevailed in the decorations and refreshments. The centerpiece was a large diamond ring encircled with flowers. Games were won by Mrs. Joe Morris, Mrs. Richard Smith and Mrs. Norman Melvin.

Couple honeymoon at King's Island Inn

Miss Connie Sue Landacre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Landacre, of Morrow, and Keith Wayne Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Damon E. Merritt, of near Bloomingburg, exchanged marriage vows at 1:30 p.m. Saturday in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church.

The Rev. E. Eugene Frazer, of the First United Methodist Church in Middletown, and the Rev. Frank Allen White, of the Madison Mills Methodist Church, performed the wedding ceremony.

Mrs. Paul Huff, of Madison Mills, presented a 15 minute organ prelude of wedding selections.

The large stained glass window over the altar was flanked with milk glass vases filled with white gladioli, pink carnations, heather and palm fronds and large bows of pink satin and burgundy velvet. Altar was flanked by seven-branch candelabra with tall white tapers, trimmed with palm fronds and bows matching the others. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Landacre wore a floor-length white velvet sheath, with empire waist self-banded and bowed, high round-neckline and long sleeves. The neckline, sleeves and front panels were banded with wide white lace. The gown was made by the bride's mother. Her elbow-length tiered veil of English illusion fell from a velvet bow and pearl encrusted lace tiara. She wore a gold watch, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white linen and lace handkerchief, a gift of the groom's maternal grandmother for her graduation. Her colonial bouquet was of white carnations and Fiji mums with greenery and white streamers.

Miss Ellen Landacre was maid of honor for her sister. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Jerry Robinson, cousin of the bride, of Morrow, and Miss Dora Zech, also a cousin, both of Morrow. Miss Lanacre wore a floor-length burgundy velvet A-line gown with empire waist, jewelry neckline, and long bell-shaped sleeves. The waist, neckline and sleeves were outlined in white lace daisies. The matching circular veil was centered with matching velvet Dior bow. The other two wore pink velvet gowns and matching headpieces identical to the maid of honor. All were made by the bride's mother. They carried miniature fireside baskets of pink and burgundy carnations, heather and greenery with pink velvet streamers.

Miss Jennifer Demmitt, of Morrow, and Miss Beth Merritt, sister of the groom, were the flower girls. They wore floor-length burgundy velvet dresses made with empire waist, short puffed sleeves and high round neckline, with pink velvet cummerbund. Their gowns were made by the groom's mother.

Dennis Anschutz, of Madison Mills, served as best man. Seating the wedding guests were Jerry Robinson and John Landacre, brother of the bride, both of Morrow, Mark Frazer, of Middletown, and Eddie Merritt, brother of the groom.

The bride's mother wore a powder blue embossed polyester crepe dress with pleated skirt, short sleeves, banded keyhole neckline trimmed with silver buttons. Gray suede accessories and a white carnation corsage completed her ensemble. The groom's mother wore a navy and white double knit A-line dress with mandarin collar and bodice outlined in navy lace. She wore navy patent accessories and a pink carnation corsage. The grandmothers, Mrs. Albert Bradley, of Williamsville, and Mrs. John Merritt, of here, wore white carnation corsages.

For the reception held in the church annex following the wedding ceremony, the bride's table was covered with sheer embossed cloth, with appointments of silver and crystal. The table was centered with a five tiered decorated cake topped with a bride and groom figurine, baked by the bride's mother. The cake was flanked by tall white tapers in antique carnival glass holders that had been a 50th wedding anniversary gift to the groom's maternal great-grandparents. Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. E. Eugene Frazer, of Middletown, Mrs. Jess Schlichter, of Bloomingburg, Mrs. George Anschutz, Madison Mills, Mrs. Jack Flax and Mrs. Kenneth Miller, both of Washington C.H. aunts of the groom.

An evening reception was held in the heated barn at the home of the bride's parents, with a buffet supper and Opening lead - king of hearts.

Whenever declarer plays a suit contract he is faced with the problem of whether or not to draw trumps. There is no hard and fast rule that governs this recurring problem. The best he can do is exercise his judgment in accordance with the circumstances he faces.

Take this deal where West leads the K-A-10 of hearts, declarer ruffing the third one. If South draws trumps at this point, he runs himself out of them — since the trumps are divided 4-2.

Regardless of what he does next, South must go down one. Thus, if he crosses to dummy with a club in order to try a diamond finesse, West wins with the queen and cashes the nine of hearts to score the setting trick.

But if South makes allowance for the possibility that the trumps are divided 4-2, rather than 3-3, he makes the contract. He delays drawing trumps because he is not yet ready to extract them.

Declarer's proper play is to ruff the third heart high and enter dummy by playing a low trump to the nine. Then he leads the ten of diamonds and finesses, losing to the queen. West is now helpless, despite his four trumps. If he plays a heart, declarer ruffs in dummy, comes to his hand with a club, draws trumps, and easily makes the rest of the tricks. If West plays any other suit, South draws trumps that much sooner to make the contract.

In effect, declarer goes out of his way to establish a tenth trick (in diamonds; before drawing the hostile trumps. He does not rely exclusively on a 3-3 trump division to see him home. He also protects against the 4-2 possibility by avoiding the premature extraction of trumps.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Nosebleeds and Menstruation

During my regular menstrual period, I almost always have a series of nosebleeds. It seems strange, but is there a relationship between the two?

Miss V. R., N. J.

Dear Miss R.:
Having a nosebleed during one's menstrual period is not an unusual occurrence. There is a condition known as "vicarious menstruation" during which bleeding occurs in other organs besides the uterus. Bleeding from the breasts and from the intestinal tract have been reported as part of this phenomenon.

Nosebleeds more commonly occur because there is a general congestion of the lining of the nose in many people during the menstrual cycle.

Many years ago, a condition referred to as the "naso-genital response" was described. In experimental animals it was found that it was actually possible to inhibit pregnancy by using certain drugs in the nose. This drew further attention to the fact that in humans, nasal congestion and bleeding could be explained during the cycle.

Although your condition does not seem to warrant concern, blood studies can easily show the absence of any bleeding tendency. This probably will give you a great deal of assurance.

A friend of mine has cirrhosis of the liver. He was not always a heavy drinker of alcohol. Are there other causes for this?

Mr. S. L., Ohio

Dear Mr. L.:
The word "cirrhosis" is a descriptive one and refers to the orange-brown color of the liver when it is affected by this disorder.

The liver can be damaged by other substances besides alcohol. It is a most remarkable organ and has considerable reserve power that compensates for small areas of damage. But when alcohol in large quantities over a long period of time does damage to a large part of the liver, its function diminishes. Unfortunately, this process is not always reversible, even if the alcoholism is finally controlled.

There are other reasons besides alcohol for one of the many types of cirrhosis. Some drugs, toxic chemicals, infections, and untreated syphilis can affect the liver and cause the dire consequences of cirrhosis.

Prevention is the key to the preservation of this vital organ of the body.

Unwillingness to seek help behind many heart deaths?

CHICAGO (AP) — Many patients who die of heart attacks might be saved if they would seek medical assistance earlier, say two Maryland physicians.

Drs. Manning Feinleib and Michael J. Davidson of the National Heart and Lung Institute at Bethesda, Md., report on a survey of a Maryland suburban area of 250,000 population in the Nov. 27 issue of the Journal of the American Medical Association.

"By far the greatest delay in the care of the patient with an acute myocardial infarction was his own unwillingness to call for help," they reported.

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States, and myocardial infarction accounts for the greatest percentage of these deaths. In this disease, an area of the heart muscle is damaged or killed because of an insufficient supply of blood.

Feinleib and Davidson studied the 719 recorded deaths of persons 35 to 74 years of age in Montgomery County for 1969. Of these, 257 died of coronary heart disease.

At least 155 of the heart-fatality victims died "before receiving any definitive medical care," they said.

Major factors found to be responsible for the delay were: delay in recognizing symptoms, denial of symptoms, delay in seeking medical assistance and delay in arrival at a medical facility.

The first three forms of patient delay, the researchers said, "can take from hours to days, or even weeks." The fourth is related to transportation and usually is measured in minutes.

To help shorten the delay, the physicians called for a public education program aimed at getting heart victims to seek help as soon as they experience the first symptoms of an attack.

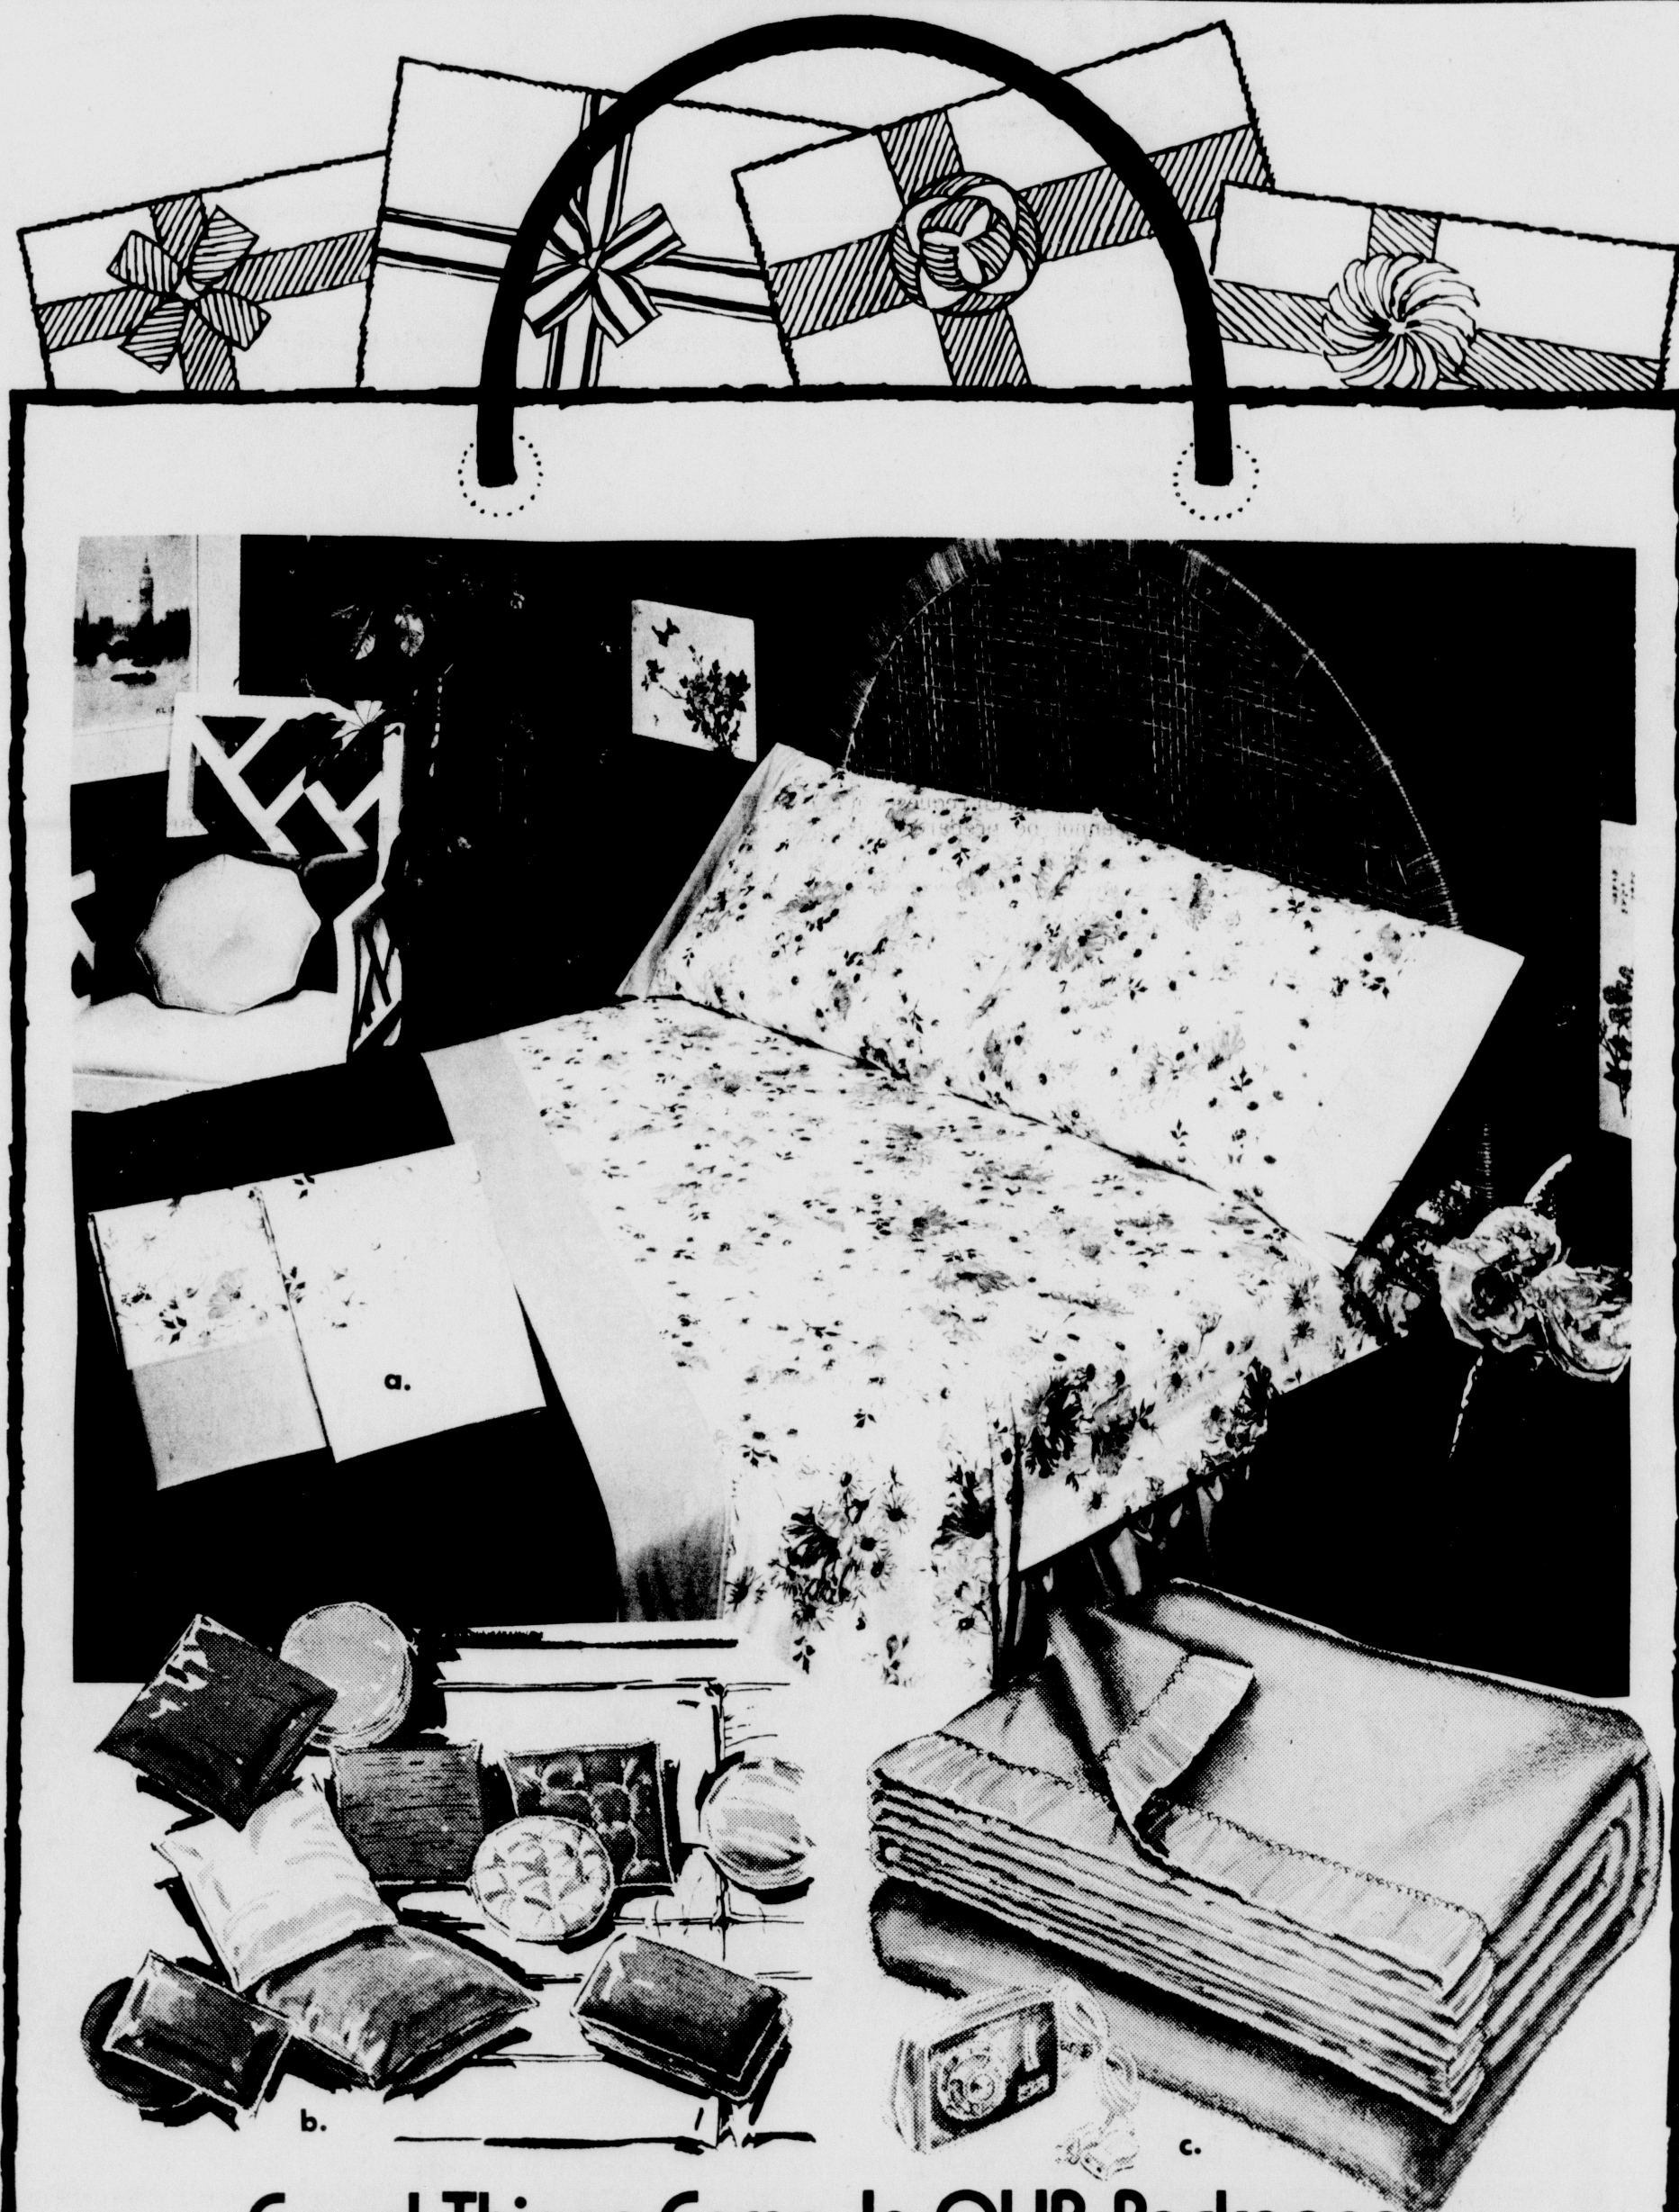

They also recommend development of a nationwide network of round-the-clock outpatient diagnostic centers, or cardiac checkpoints, to examine any patient who reports with symptoms which might indicate a heart attack.

Vinton County heavily hit by Vietnam war losses

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

Vinton war memories come easily in McArthur, and in the surrounding hills of Vinton County, smallest and poorest in Ohio. Thirteen Vinton County sons died in Vietnam, a heavy harvest among 9,420 people.

"They didn't have enough money to go to college and keep on going so they wouldn't get caught in the draft," said Postmaster T. R. Boring.

"If you're going to draft kids, if it's necessary to go off somewhere and fight, then every kid ought to be drafted equally."

The draft caught 222 in Vinton County — not counting the boys who enlisted. That was the bone stuck in many Vinton County throats as a ceasefire neared — the nagging feeling that more of their boys might have come home if the draft had been without exceptions.

"Even so," said Boring, "I would say Vinton County is hawkish. Most people around here think that if you're going to get into a war then you ought to win it."

Nothing looked less warlike than McArthur and its 1,543 citizens. High school kids jostled into Gorsuch's Drug Store for a coke, screeching as Gene Barnes and John Perry and Tom Peacock and Roy Robinson and John Goodwin may have done in their day.

Middle-aged housewives, bundled against the chill wind blowing down the Hocking River valley, hurried by with a glance at the teenage horseplay. Kids are to be treasured in Vinton County. The population is a quarter less than 30 years back.

None looked at the Marine recruiting posters in front of the small Vinton County Courthouse, or its copper statue to the Civil War dead.

That's where it all began, at the courthouse, where SPC William A. Maxwell comes over a couple of times a week from Athens to recruit. The first of the 13 was Virgil Griffy, 21-year-old farm boy from nearby Creola. He enlisted for three years in 1962, and died of wounds a month before he was due out in December, 1965.

But, blackest of all was 1969. In three weeks McArthur lost three — Marine PFC Goodwin, 21, on March 19; Army Staff Sgt. Rex F. Church, 26, on March 23, and 1st Lt. Barnes, 25, on April 11. "Oh, I'm bitter, sure, I'm bitter," said Mrs. Ross Goodwin, mother of John Goodwin. "I have only one consolation. He wanted to go. He had no fear about it. He thought it was the thing to do. I have thought to think about."

The 1969 toll reached five. PFC Leslie Reynolds, 23, fourth of eight McArthur casualties, was killed in action in September, and a month later Sgt. Keith Allen Patterson, 20, of Ailensville, died in his tank at Quang Tri.

Community anger over what Vinton saw as draft inequities ran high in those days, but it was a street-corner, living room ire. Publicly it spent itself in a few letters to editors, to congressmen, to draft officials.

Minister preached no sermons on that anger, nor did the local weekly editorialize, yet it was not for lack of concern. In shrinking Vinton County nearly everyone knows everyone else, or is related by blood or marriage.

"Gene Barnes?" said Postmaster Boring. "Yeah, I knew him. He was married to my niece." He pointed to slight middle-aged man coming through the Post Office door. "That's judge Wade Lohr. He's Gene's step-father."

Judge Lohr dropped a letter into the Air Mail slot. "I think everyone agrees it's a useless war, that we're not getting anywhere, and that even if we're losing face we ought to be pulling out and keeping our boys at home," he said.

"Five? I thought it was more than that in 1969. It seemed to me it was more. It's been pretty rough."

Lt. Barnes, one of two college graduates among the lost 13, was a career officer, a famed high school fullback in McArthur and one of the popular boys in town. He was graduated from old McArthur high school in 1962.

The 1969 graduating class of what is now Vinton County Consolidated High School, only one in the county, put up a simple bronze plaque in the gymnasium, without fuss or ceremony. A handful stood around while someone fastened the plaque to the wall.

Dave Bolender is high school principal now, but he was the football coach for Goodwin, Sgt. Thomas E. F. Peacock, 21-year-old McArthur boy killed in 1970, and SP5 Roy R. Robinson, 20, killed in action in 1968.

"They were good boys," he said. "We had a 7-3 record that year. When I look at the picture of that team, it's hard to realize they're gone."

He stopped to give two boys some grass seed and instructions about reseeding the football field.

"There's more than those boys to worry about when I look at that team picture," he said. "Some of the other boys are over there still."

Bolender walked down the hall to the gymnasium. He gazed up at the plaque. Girls of the late afternoon physical education class milled around while a girl tried to do a flip and failed. Giggles chorused shrilly. Bolender turned back to his office.

A few village blocks away Mrs. Francis Peacock talked about her son, Tom, killed by a sniper bullet month before he was due out. "I'm not bitter. I've had to figure it was just one of those things."

"I'm glad the war may be coming to some sort of end and I'm glad for those who did make it back."

She sighed. "It seemed an awful lot were taken. I think most of the Vinton County boys who were drafted went to Vietnam. Why, my husband's sister has eight boys. They were all drafted and they all went to Vietnam, and none of them was hurt."

The chill had deepened on the streets. The few villagers abroad headed away from the center of town, walking briskly.

Mrs. Frye watched the stragglers from the Courier window. "I don't think they're going to get all excited by a cease-fire," she said.

"They'll feel glad it's come, sure, but I think they're just fed up to here." She swept the edge of her hand across her throat.

"This is a conservative county," said Boring, a Democrat. "It's Nixon country. You know the President's grandfather came from here? Yeah, he lived here, went to Whittier, Calif., named Francis, or something."

Boring weighed a letter and sold an 8-cent stamp. "Amnesty," he said, "that killed (Sen. George) McGovern in this county. Amnesty." It sounded like a dirty word.

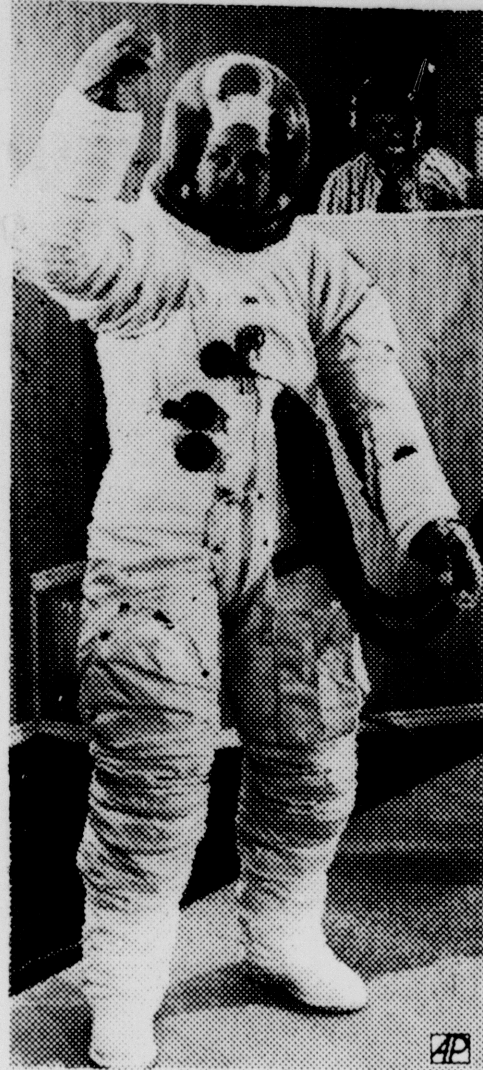

Vinton County has had many a brush with war in its 122-year history. It was only 10 years old when the Civil War began, but sent its sons. Even the county seat was martially named — for Gen. Duncan McArthur, an ancestor of Gen. Douglas McArthur.

Just outside the town, on a slope overlooking State Route 93, Elk Cemetery bristled with the flags on service graves. Thirty of them were from the sacrifices of World War II. Most of the county's 13 Vietnam victims lie there, too, along with the six dead of the Korean War.

"You bet your life this county's bitter," said Mrs. Frye.

"God knows best," said Mrs. Peacock. "God took him and it must have been for his good."

She hesitated. "I haven't told many people this, but even when Tom was a baby I had this feeling I wouldn't be able to keep him. 'God knows best,' she said.

List of privileges shows senators get free ice

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. senators receive wallet-size copies of their electrocardiograms, free ice, and speech-writing services from the Library of Congress.

They also are entitled to use plants from the Botanic Gardens for their offices, or reproductions of paintings and prints from the National Gallery of Art.

These are just a few samplings from a list of "allowances, emoluments and privileges" available to U.S. senators and published in a new Congressional Handbook.

The 204-page handbook was prepared by the Joint Committee on Congressional Operations. There is a companion volume for House members.

The handbook notes that senators automatically receive $45,000 in group life insurance coverage at a monthly cost of $26.82. The amount is based on their salaries of $42,500 a year.

A senator's allowance for staff help, and the size of his office suite, depends on how populous a state he represents.

Senators from states with a population of over 17 million—California and New York—are allowed $558,145 a year for staff costs. Senators from states with a population of three million or less receive $311,577.

Similarly, seven-room office suites are assigned to senators from states with over 12 million people (California and New York), six-room suites to senators from states with populations of 7 to 12 million (Pennsylvania, Illinois, Texas, Michigan, Ohio and New Jersey), and five-room suites to senators from states with less than seven million.

Choice of suites is on the basis of seniority.

America's first fog-warning device was included in the construction in 1808 of West Quoddy Light, the most northern lighthouse along the rockbound coast of Maine. Sixty dollars were added to the lighthouse keeper's $300 yearly pay for beating a 500-pound bell with a hammer on frequent foggy days.

Senators receive allowances for stationery, postage, telephone and telegraph, travel and offices in home states. These also are based on state population and, in the case of travel, on the distance between a senator's state and Washington.

Senators are given congressional license tags and have virtually unrestricted parking privileges in Washington.

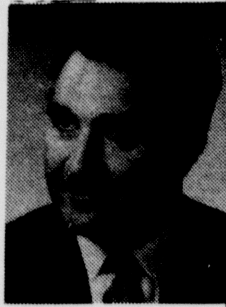

The handbook offers advice on how to keep office files and write to government officials. It even tells the location of gymnasiums in the Senate office buildings.

To have the Library of Congress prepare a speech, the senator need only provide such information as what viewpoint he wants expressed, desired length of the speech, and the occasion for giving the speech.

But there is a limit, the handbook cautions. "Term papers, master's theses, and other research requests of constituents cannot be prepared," it says.

Buckeye cagers open season with victory

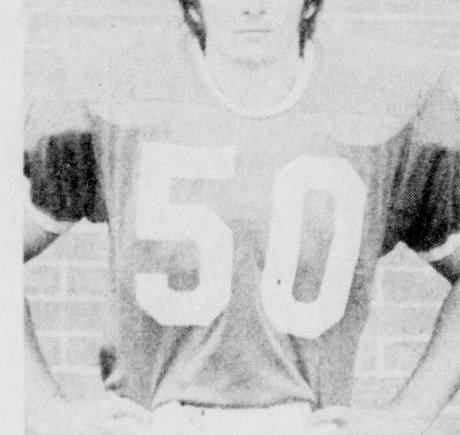

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State's red-hot sophomores of 1971 hope to get the chance this season that they missed out on last season—that of dethroning UCLA as the national collegiate basketball champion.

A year ago the Scarlet and Gray, led by Luke Witte and Alan Hornyak, were given an excellent chance of ending UCLA's reign. They failed to qualify for the NCAA national championship postseason tournament when Minnesota beat them out for the Big Ten title.

Now seniors, Witte and Hornyak combined for 47 points Tuesday night in leading Ohio State to a 92-81 opening game victory over Wisconsin-Milwaukee. The 7-foot Witte scored 24 points and 15 rebounds for the Buckeyes, 10th-ranked in the pre-season Associated Press poll. Hornyak hit for 23 points.

Dolphins trample Cards 31-10 in NFL mismatch

MIAMI (AP) — Young Otto Stowe streaked out of Paul Warfield's shadow to catch two touchdown passes for Miami's all-winning Dolphins and vowed not to remain backstage much longer.

"I love playing in Miami and winning is wonderful," said the sophomore pro from Iowa State, "but I'm not planning to sit on the bench for another season."

With the incomparable Warfield resting an injured leg, Stowe ran past befuddled St. Louis cornerback Norm Thompson to catch a 37-yard bomb from Earl Morrall and a 27-yarder from Jim Del Gaudio.

Special awards top program

Lion grid team honored

Members of the 1972 Washington C.H. Blue Lion football team were honored at the annual booster club and athletic department sponsored banquet held Monday night at the WSHS cafeteria.

Two added features spiced Monday's annual banquet, but the announcement of the winners of four coveted awards highlighted the evening. (See related story).

Mike Domenico, captain of the 1972 Blue Lion football team, captured the bulk of the hardware presented by veteran head coach Maurice Pfeifer.

DOMENICO, a 6-foot-1, 201-pound senior center and linebacker who was one of the keys in Washington C.H.'s 6-4 all-games record and 3-2 South Central Ohio League chart, grabbed the team's weightlifting award and the All-SCOL three-year letter-winner also copped the leading tackler trophy for 100 stops this season.

Mark Johnson, a swift 5-foot-8, 150-pound junior wingback, captured the most consistent player award, which is equal to most valuable player awards handed out by most teams. Johnson cracked the team record book with the most passes caught (39) in one season, the most (3) interceptions in one contest and the most passes (8) caught in one game.

Kevin Terry, a fleet-footed junior wide receiver, was selected as the team's most improved player. Terry landed an All-SCOL honorable mention berth this year. Both the most consistent and most improved player awards were selected by the players.

Domenico and senior trainer Steve Hill topped the recognition list as they captured three-year awards. Second-year awards were presented to David Rittenhouse, John Sanderson, Kevin Smith, Garth Cox, John Tatman, Chuck Wilson, Larry Howell, Duke Willis, Mark Johnson, Alan Coppock, manager Tom Rodgers and manager David Bryan.

Certificates of participation were presented to John Huysman and David Butterfield and Rory Souther, Jim Smith, Ron Oates and David Peyton nabbed reserve awards.

VARSITY cheerleaders honored were Diana Kimmel, captain, Jill Willis, Jacqui Sagar, Glenna Haightcock, Annetta Smith and Cindy Mustine. Reserve cheerleaders feted were Teri Mount, captain, Johnna Upthegrove, Karen Cook, Barbara Oswald, Ima Darling, Mary Ann Rudduck and Diana Brown.

Robert Bane, Washington C.H.'s athletic director, served as the banquet toastmaster and trainer Steve Hill delivered the invocation. A buffet style dinner was served under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth Knedler and entertainment was provided by the WSHS pep band under the direction of Charles L. Shaffer.

Bill Mount, president of the booster club, delivered announcements and remarks and team captain Mike Domenico and Bane introduced the special guests. Rodger Mickle introduced members of the 1952 Washington C.H. team and Coach Pfeifer introduced James Francis Patrick O'Neill, of WLW radio, who delivered the banquet address.

Pfeifer reviewed the season and introduced his coaching staff of Jon Creamer, Dale Lynch, John Armstrong, Don Gibbs, John Skinner and Mickle. Domenico delivered closing remarks and Garth Cox gave the invocation.

Avery sees tough contest shaping up with Giants

CINCINNATI (AP)—Linebacker Ken Avery, who played a key role in Cincinnati's victory over Chicago Sunday, believes the bengals "can use all the luck in the world" in their upcoming game against the New York Giants.

Avery formerly played for the Giants, who devastated the Philadelphia Eagles 62-10 Sunday and hiked their record to 7-4.

"I'm really getting excited about it," the bruising linebacker said about second win in a row when it meets always-tough Columbus Watterson. The Eagles, on the other hand, will be looking for their first win of the year after dropping a 71-61 decision to Columbus North last Wednesday.

THE GAME has been rescheduled for tonight from Nov. 24 since Watterson's football team participated in Ohio's first-ever championship playoffs. The reserve game will start at 5:30 p.m.

In Friday's SCOL openers, Washington C.H. entertains Greenfield, Miami Trace plays host to Hillsboro and Circleville visits Wilmington. On Saturday, Wilmington travels to Clinton Massie and Hamilton Township invades Circleville.

By MIKE FLYNN

Record-Herald Sports Editor

Although the honoring of members of the Washington C.H. Blue Lion football team highlighted the annual booster club banquet Monday night, a couple of other added attractions grabbed a large portion of the spotlight.

The featured address delivered by witty James Francis Patrick O'Neill, of WLW radio, kept the fine crowd chuckling for nearly 30 minutes, and the introduction of members of the legendary 1952 Washington C.H. team, which is celebrating its 20th anniversary since that colorful unbeaten season, had banquet followers ohing and aching.

What turned out to be a delightful banquet address started after Washington C.H. head football coach Maurice Pfeifer introduced the comical Cincinnati broadcaster, when Police Chief Rodman Scott took the microphone and announced a variety of charges which had been jokingly lodged against O'Neill, ranging from

WCH booster meeting scheduled Wednesday

The Washington C.H. Blue Lion basketball boosters club will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, according to Dic Witherspoon, president of the backing organization.

The boosters will discuss the annual membership drive which was held last week, view films of the Washington C.H. Portsmouth game and hear a report on Tuesday's contest against East Clinton from head coach Gary Shaffer.

Cincinnati's first meeting ever with the Giants.

Avery, who played for the Giants two years before joining the Bengals in 1969, made several tackles in Cincinnati's 13-3 triumph over the Bears last week, but one stood out in particular.

Avery rammed a shoulder into 230-pound Chicago running back James Harrison to stop him short of a first down on a fourth-and-one situation at the Bengals 20-yard line. The Bengals held a 7-0 lead at the time in the first half and Chicago Coach Abe Gibron said, "after that, our offense wasn't worth a damn."

Avery said he considered the play "the game's turning point," and explained that he felt "an extra psych for that game."

Avery, who has missed a couple of games this year with injuries, noted that he and the Chicago linebacker Dick Butkus have the same uniform number (51) and said, "I just kind of wanted to be the best 51 on the field."

"Butkus makes you feel like, well, like you want to be as tough as the guy is noted to be."

"I don't idolize him, but backs kind of dread going into the game against him. I like that mean part of him, but he gambles too much at his team's expense."

It was a Butkus "gamble," a blitz, on which the Bengals scored their first touchdown.

speeding on Court Street en route to the banquet to failure to obtain a visitor's pass and parking permits at WSHS, and ordered O'Neill to appear in "kangaroo court."

O'NEILL, with a perpetual stream of unusual wit, is the inventor of Washington C.H.'s imaginary professional football team, "The Offsides," and deluged the audience with a number of jokes and hilarious experiences, plus a progress report on this city's popular pro team.

"The Morning Mayor" admitted that despite having received specific directions to the high school, he became lost Monday. O'Neill said he's such a poor navigator, he takes a taxi cab to the rest room.

Rodger Mickle, a Washington C.H. assistant football coach, captured the hearts of the crowd in a joking manner when he was assigned the responsibility of introducing the 1952 Blue Lion team members present. Mickle, who won All-SCOL honors with the Blue Lions in the 1954 season, was a sophomore member of that legendary Lion team.

Mickle reviewed the 1952 season in which the Blue Lions rolled over nine straight foes, piled up 3,315 rushing yards compared with 135 yards for their foes, stacked up another 502 in the air and scored 507 points while allowing the opponents a meager 32 markers. The Lions, who won statewide accolades, punted only eight times.

CARL SMITH, an All-Ohio halfback who later played at Tennessee and pro football with the Detroit Lions and Buffalo Bills, was present at Monday's fete and Mickle reviewed some of Smith's accomplishments.

He scored 90 career touchdowns, 47 during the 1952 season, 17 extra points for a total of 557 points, 294 in the 9-0 season. Smith gained 4,457 yards in 577 rushes and grabbed 32 passes for 966 yards.

Also present were Shirley Vincent Drake, a senior cheerleader, Mike Bireley, Chester Dean, Donald Foster, Carl Smith, Wayne Van Meter and Dick Wilt.

Next year on the Blue Lion banquet, the 1953 team will be saluted to start a tradition of honoring teams from 20 years ago.

Military review board hears Calley mercy bid

FT. BENNING, Ga. (AP) — Lt. William L. Calley Jr., who has spent much of the last 19 months in the home that is his prison, playing with pets and putting in the garden, has made a plea for clemency.

Calley, convicted in March 1971 of the murders of 22 Vietnamese civilians at My Lai, answered questions Monday from the three-man Army Clemency and Parole Board, which flew here from Ft. Leavenworth, Kan.

The officers walked quickly from the red-brick apartment after their private session with Calley, which lasted nearly two hours. Waiting military cars whisked them away before newsmen could question them.

The clemency officers were Lt. Col. Harvey C. Johnson, Capt. James E. Brawner and Capt. Ray V. Smith.

The clemency board's report when completed will be sent to the commander at Ft. Benning and then will go directly to the Army's provost marshal general.

In a separate proceeding, the U.S. Court of Military Review will convene at Falls Church, Va., on Monday to hear a brief contending that Calley's courtmartial contained at least 32 errors of fact. It is part of the automatic appeal of his sentence.

Calley, a 29-year-old platoon leader, was sentenced to life imprisonment, but that term was later reduced to 20 years.

Calley's conviction and sentence, President Nixon ordered him removed from the stockade at Ft. Benning and returned to his apartment, where he is guarded continuously by a military policeman.

Calley spends his days tending pets — a beagle and a minah bird, whose raucous cries can be heard by neighbors — and putting in his garden. He has few visitors now.

4 firemen, chaplain hurt during blaze

COLUMBUS, Ohio (A+)— Four firemen and a chaplain were injured Monday night while fighting a fire that gutted a three-story near-downtown building containing a business and furniture warehouse.

Firemen battled the blaze for three hours before bringing it under control without spreading to several other nearby warehouses.

Cause of the fire had not been determined and there was no estimate of damage.

The four firemen were hurt when power lines fell on them. Treated at University Hospital for electrical shock and released were Richard Shaeffer, 46, James Blizzard, 30, Harold Barnes, 38, and Gale Mahoney, 48.

The chaplain, the Rev. Carlton Sutorius, was injured in a fall. He was released after treatment at Grant Hospital for a shoulder injury.

Some 150 firemen and 31 fire units were sent to the blaze, which lighted up the near north side sky and sent dense smoke drifting over the city. When firefighters arrived all three floors were ablaze and flames were coming out of the roof.

Because of numerous falling wires, the electric company shut off power in the area for nearly an hour.

The building, located near the corner of Swan and High streets on the northern edge of the downtown area, housed the Swan Street Flea Market on the ground floor and a furniture warehouse in the rear and upper floors.

FTC sets endorsement regulations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission wants to tighten up its guidelines on endorsements in advertisements to leave less room for deception.

The FTC Monday asked for comment on proposed guidelines to prompt disclosure of facts which have a bearing on the impact of the endorsement, but which the public could not be expected to know.

Endorsers presented as experts should be qualified in the pertinent field, the FTC says. An "engineer" endorsing an automobile should be an automotive expert, not a chemist.

Any connection between advertiser and endorser should be spelled out, the agency said. And when an endorser says he uses a product because its superior, that should be the reason, rather than that money has changed hands.

The agency also said an endorser represented as a typical user must be that. For instance, an appliance ad would not be able to use the experience of someone who used the product for eight years if its average life is three years.

A decision on implementation of the guidelines will be made after a four-month period in which comment will be received.

Gustavas Adolphus hires Ohio prof

ST. PETER, Minn. (AP) — Gustavas Adolphus College President Frank Barth announced Monday the appointment of Dr. Robert Karsten of Springfield, Ohio, as vice president of academic administration at the school.

Karsten, who has taught religion and has been a pastor at Wittenberg University in Springfield, will assume the position next Feb. 1.

Seek student in wounding at high school

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Police continued to search today for an unidentified assailant who pulled a gun during a scuffle and wounded five students, one seriously, at Pontiac Central High School.

Witnesses said the shooting Monday occurred after an apparent confrontation between black and white students. It was the first outbreak this year in the once-troubled inner city school with a 30 per cent black student population.

School and police officials, however, tended to dismiss racial tensions as the cause of the incident, viewing it as an isolated flareup.

Sophomore student Timothy Williams, 15, who had been hospitalized in serious condition after being shot in the back, was described in fair condition by Monday night after undergoing surgery.

The other four — two boys and two girls — were released from hospitals later Monday. One girl is black, the other four pupils are white, school officials said.

Lt. James Lafnear, school police counselor, said the scuffling occurred as classes changed. Police said the trouble apparently began when a student identified as Dale Miller, 16, was kicked and shoved by other students in the courtyard.

Authorities said a black youth, believed to be a student, suddenly pulled a .22 or .25 caliber pistol and began shooting in an open courtyard between school buildings.

Police said 30 to 50 youths were on hand when the shooting started.

Urge more data on 'The Pill'

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— The widely-used birth control pills are potentially free of blood-clotting hazards, but doctors prescribing them need much more information from government and other medical sources to assure such safety, a Louisiana State University Medical Center physician says.

Specifically, said Dr. Richard Dickey, there are so many different varieties of such pills on the market—14 at present—and each with different pharmacological properties, that doctors need guidance on the proper type of types needed to safely suit a particular woman's needs.

Indeed, he said, while such pills have become one of the most frequently-prescribed class of drugs, "the American physician probably knows less about the pharmacological basis for their differences in clinical potency and in the incidence of major and minor side-effects than about any other class of drugs."

Clever jail inmates run up $4,700 bill for phone use

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)— Prisoners in the Mahoning County jail are no longer solaced by free long distance telephone service.

Unbeknownst to sheriff's deputies, a handful of prisoners managed to run up a $4,800 long distance bill after devising a series of dialed numbers that connected a special prisoners phone into long distance circuits.

The situation was finally discovered when county officials notified the jail early in November that it had used up its entire budget on the phone bill. Since the monthly phone bill for the prisoner's phone was only supposed to be $42 a month, jail administrator Capt. John Prystash started checking.

He said one of the prisoners finally showed him the special code that was used in the dialing.

"The phone company wouldn't believe it either, so I brought them in and had to show them," Prystash said. The company's technicians came in later to fix the circuit, "and they didn't believe it, so we had to show them, too," he said.

"Some of these guys are pretty sharp," Prystash said. "And they're here 24 hours a day."

Now the circuit is long distance-proof, he said, and the phone company has dropped the $4,800 bill since the original contract hadn't called for long distance service.

Prystash said the prisoners will still be allowed access to the phone and that only "seven or eight guys altogether" were involved in the long distance calls. The phone is provided on a scheduled basis for prisoners to call their wives and families, he said, and "it's been a good thing really."

"Sometimes the prisoners have a problem at home or need to get word out and then they start getting upset

Americans deny death, author says

LEWISTON, Maine (AP) — Americans deny the inevitability of death and consider it to be similar to going to sleep in a comfortable bed, a sociologist says.

It is something to be ignored, sent packing off to a nursing home to slip away and die offstage, says Richard C. Dumont of Bates College, who recently co-authored a book, "The American View of Death: Acceptance or Denial."

"The American apparently does not die," he said.

Madison Avenue image makers and businessmen seeking profit have combined to project the American corpse as alive as possible, and going to sleep in a casket which is often explicitly advertised as a comfortable bed.

Dumont said he still personally denies death "at the gut level. Although I am more conscious now of the ambivalence surrounding death, it's no more comprehensible than it ever was."

He added that he personally hasn't "solved any better the notion that I'll die."

"It's good for the individual to know that ambivalent or confusing feelings about death are natural," Dumont said. "It's helpful in view of individual adaptation."

about it if they can't. That's when you start having security problems," he said.

Prystash said the calls, to Florida, Michigan and California numbers, were spaced out over several months. He said he made some attempt to find out exactly who made the calls, but then he gave it up.

Pipeline ruptures, catches fire

WESTON, W.Va. (AP) — Work crews of Consolidated Gas Supply Corp. were to begin investigation today of a ruptured 20-inch natural gas distribution line which broke in an isolated section of north-central West Virginia and sent flames streaming 100 feet into the sky.

Jack Powers, public relations officer for the firm, said "we don't have any idea" what caused the break and subsequent fire, the reflection of which was seen 80 miles away in Marietta, Ohio, but speculated that "it may have been a land slip. Usually that's one of the main causes."

There weren't any houses near the break, Powers said, and no injuries were reported.

Powers fixed the location of the ruptured line as "near Churchville about 14 miles from Weston" near the Lewis County-Gilmer County line.

Workers received a report of the break about 9:45 p.m. and rushed to close main valves near here and near Glenville in Gilmer County. The line was sealed off at 10:12 p.m., Powers said.

ASC election ballots mailed

Each of the five Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service communities in Fayette County is now in the process of electing three committeemen and two alternates for one-year terms, starting Jan. 1.

Ballots, each listing six candidates, have been mailed to approximately 1,575 eligible farmers (those who participate in the federal farm programs). The ballots must be marked, signed and returned to the ASCS office here by Dec. 1. The farmer may vote for up to three of the candidates or he may write in the names of his choices if they are not on the ballot. The ballots will be counted in an open meeting at 9 a.m. Dec. 6.

The three members receiving the most votes in each community committee will meet Dec. 15 for a county convention to elect the county ASCS committee, composed of a chairman, vice chairman, member and two alternates.

County ASCS committee chairman Otties Smith said it is "very important that the farmers elect the most qualified farmers to the community and county committees." He pointed out that they assist the county ASCS committee in administration of the federal farm programs and help keep farmers informed on how they affect individual farm operations.

In past elections less than half of the eligible farmers voted in the community committee elections; it is expected to be about the same this year.

HERE ARE the nominees for each community committee:

5 persons held in Xavier death

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Five young Cincinnatians were held here today on first-degree murder charges stemming from the rifle slaying of a student during a robbery at Xavier University Nov. 11.

A sixth man, Dan Martin, 20, of Cincinnati, was sought on the same charge in the shooting of Thomas Keith Jenkins Jr., 18, of Pasadena, Md., in a student center game room.

Police arrested four of the men Monday at different locations here. Vernon Childs, 18; Willis McNeil Jr., 26; Ronald Amos, 23; and Wendell Drake, 22; were taken into custody by heavily-armed officers.

It's a fact that most of the people I know who have cameras miss much of the fun because they don't know the capabilities of the camera in their hands. Just for example, with almost any of the electric eye Instamatic cameras you can slip in a cartridge of EH, that's high-speed Ektachrome, and get pix you couldn't think of getting with the Kodachrome or Ektachrome film you've been using. The EH film, with its speed of 160, will get you the shots you've wanted but figured you couldn't get with that kind of camera. We sell a lot of high-speed Ektachrome in the 126 size but it nearly all goes to a few of those venturesome souls who tried it and found how much fun it was to use the film with the higher capability. Why not try EH and join the fun?

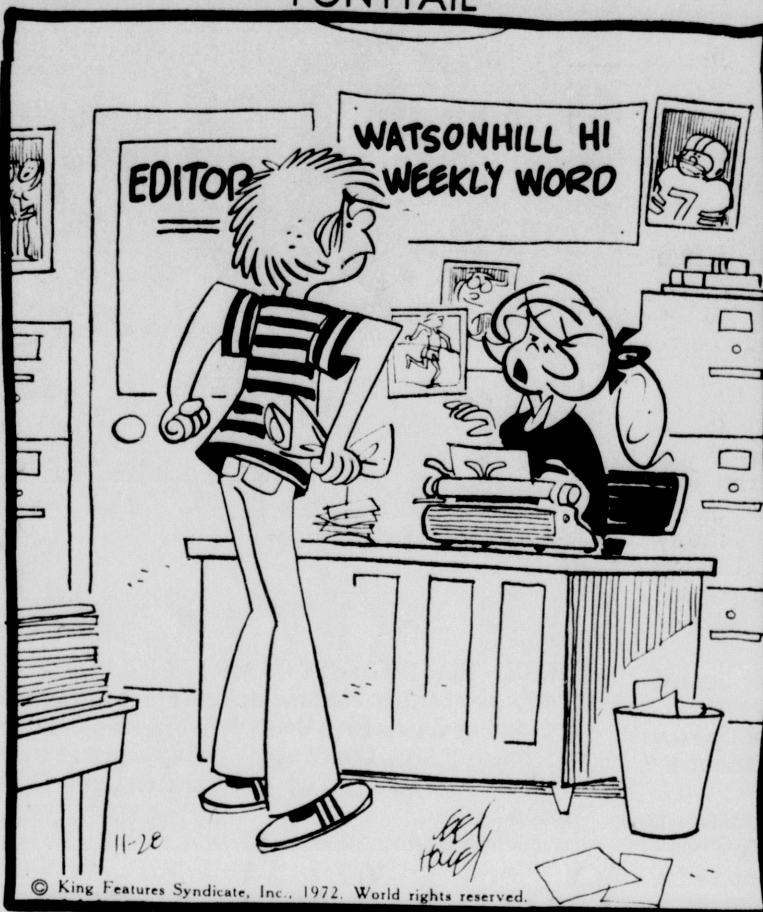

While on the subject of film, have you seen any of the shots made on the new Kodachrome II? It's only available now in the 110 size for the new Pocket Instamatic. Most people say the quality is almost as good as Agfacolor. And if you like brilliant prints with colors that just won't quit you just gotta try Agfacolor. And guess what: you can have your choice of glossy prints with border or silk finish without border. Quality is the greatest.

The new Kodak Pocket Instamatic cameras? We still have a few of each model in stock, but they are going fast. The Kodak XL movie cameras that don't need lights? They are all gone and we'll have no more 'til after the first of the year. If you don't shop early this year you are out of luck.

Shooting-theft case goes to grand jury

An 18-year-old Fayette County youth waived preliminary hearings and was bound over to the grand jury in Municipal Court Monday afternoon on charges of shooting with intent to kill, and auto theft.

Ronald Francis Eugene Frazier entered a plea of guilty to the shooting charge brought by the Sheriff's Department in connection with a shooting incident at a Flakes Ford Road home Sunday in which Frazier allegedly fired five shotgun blasts at a county cruiser.

Judge Reed M. Winegardner set bond in the case at $20,000.

Frazier also was bound over on an auto theft charge filed by city police. Officers said Frazier stole an 1964 model car owned by Donna J. Robeberry, Mount Sterling, Saturday night, then wrecked the car a few minutes later on Washington Avenue.

Bond on the auto theft complaint was set at $1,000.

An assault charge filed against Frazier by his mother, Louise Frazier, was also heard by Judge Winegardner.

Mrs. Frazier said her son had slapped her several times, then grabbed a shotgun and rifle. He threatened the family with the guns and fired a shot at a brother who ran to phone for help, she testified.

Frazier then fled to the nearby John Junk residence from which he fired on Deputy John Emrick.

JUDGE WINEGARDNER sentenced Frazier to six months in jail and fined him $200 on the assault charge. He had pleaded guilty to the complaint.

Faye Montavon, 44, of 1008 Millwood Ave., was fined $150 and costs on a shoplifting complaint filed by Sea-way employes Friday.

Employees said Mrs. Montavon had placed a package of men's underwear valued at $3.39 in her purse then left the store after making another purchase.

She pleaded guilty to the charge.

Albert A. Hodge, 23, Rt. 1, Bloomingburg, pleaded guilty to an assault complaint brought by Pearl Gilmore, of 907 Forest St., and was fined $100 and costs.

The warrant was filed Sunday following an incident at the Gilmore home. Judge Winegardner suspended $75 of the fine on condition of good behavior for a year.

A fine of $15 and costs was levied against Robert P. Matson, 25, of 210 W. Elm St. on a disturbing the peace charge filed by Patrolman William E. Robinson.

Robinson said Matson caused a disturbance by yelling early Saturday on E. Court Street. Matson entered a guilty plea on the complaint.

Edward E. Bellar, 20, of 412 W. Court St., and Tommy D. Sword, 24, Rt. 4, both failed to appear in court on fighting charges and forfeited $50 bonds.

Officers said the two were arrested early Saturday as they exchanged blows in an alley beside the B & B Restaurant, E. Court St.

Realtors elect, hear councilman

City Councilman Ralph Cook reported on the City of Washington's financial outlook to the Fayette County Board of Realtors at the Realtors' monthly meeting Monday evening in the office of Mark & Mustine Real Estate. A new slate of officers and directors for the 1973 year was elected.

Cook discussed the city's past financial problems and the defeat of both the city income tax and the real estate tax levies. He said that recent grants by both the federal and the state governments to the city are requiring Council to take a "whole new look" at the future financial picture.

The Realtors elected Frank Weade as president for the 1973 year; Ann Polk, vice president; Gary Anders, secretary-treasurer and Mac Dews, Tom Mark, Bart Mahoney and Steve Lewis, directors.

Howard Miller reported on the National Association of Real Estate Boards national convention in Hawaii which he attended as delegate for the Fayette County Board. Bill Lucas stated that all preparations have been made for the Realtors annual Christmas party on Dec. 11 at the Terrace Lounge. Board President Tom Mark, who conducted the meeting, appointed an audit committee composed of Del Drake, Bob Lewis and Tom Mossbarger.

Planning region feasibility study scheduled Dec. 5

A group of community leaders will attend a briefing session in the Chamber of Commerce conference room at 7 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 5, to discuss a Central Ohio Planning and Service Region feasibility study, Jerry R. Sheppard, Chamber of Commerce president, announces.

Paul Baldrige, of the Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission, met with representatives of the Chamber of Commerce Nov. 21 to discuss the feasibility study. Baldrige will explain to the group of leaders at the next meeting the purpose and scope of the regional study.

Included in the study area will be Delaware, Fairfield, Fayette, Franklin, Licking, Madison, Pickaway and Union counties. The purpose of the study is to determine how local units of government within the eight-county area could cooperatively establish a workable strategy and mechanism for solving areawide problems and taking advantage of areawide opportunities.

Local governments and citizens in Central Ohio have the opportunity to take the initiative in determining the best future for the region and how best to achieve it, Sheppard said.

'Pennington Story' told to Kiwanians

Pennington Bread, Inc., is the biggest independent bakery in the United States, Jack Brennan, general manager of the plant here told Kiwanians Monday night.

Speaking after the dinner in Lafayette Inn, Brennan traced the history of the company from the time it was founded in Cincinnati in 1930.

He told how Charles Pennington had lost his job during the depression and decided to create one for himself. He said Pennington talked his brother, Morgan, into joining him in a business venture for themselves and that they decided to go into the baking business because, they figured, bread was something that would always be in demand.

With the know-how learned from an Italian baker in Cincinnati, they launched their business and, Brennan added, it profited from the start.

In 1939 a branch plant was established in Washington C.H. Everything was moving along smoothly and profitably until 1955 when the plant on Clinton Avenue was destroyed by fire.

Discouraged, the Pennington brothers did not plan to rebuild it, but with the cooperation of the people and $50,000 contributed by civic groups through the Chamber of Commerce, Brennan said they changed their minds. A new plant was constructed and the company was back in business on an expanded scale within two years. Since then several expansions have brought it up to its present size. A good product, good management and automation, Brennan said, have made Pennington Bread, Inc., the leader in the field.

ALL OPERATIONS are now handled at the Washington C.H. plant, which now employs 275 people and has a $2.25 million a year payroll. The bakery, Brennan noted, is now in operation 24 hours a day seven days a week to keep up with the growing demand for its products.

In closing, Brennan, on behalf of the company, expressed his gratitude to the many who came to the assistance of the company to help rebuild the plant after the fire.

The program was arranged by Gerald Begin, who introduced the speaker.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat, president, conducted the business session and noted that the float sponsored by the Kiwanis Club and its protegee, the Key Club, placed third in the Christmas parade. Kenneth Ansberry and Tom Yates were the co-chairmen. He also reminded that the annual Christmas party will be at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 19 in Persinger Hall at the First Presbyterian Church.

Begin announced that the Capital University Glee Club will give a concert the afternoon of Jan. 21 in the Junior High School auditorium.

Guy Foster and Duane French were delegated to attend the Dec. 4 Key Club meeting.
